---------------------	----------------

SPECIAL OFFICERS.

During the months from June 1 to October special officers are appointed to duty at the islands and also for the parks and promenades in the City. The following officers were detailed the past year to cover the territory mentioned :—

PEAKS ISLAND.

Charles W. Stevens,	James F. Trott,
Luther E. Skillings,	Alphonso Speed.

LONG ISLAND.

Napoleon B. Chase,	Warren B. Woodbury,
	W. W. Latham.

Ruel N. Field at Diamond Island.

Arthur M. Sawyer at Deering Park.

Ellery W. Rowe at Lincoln Park.

George A. Johnson at Eastern Promenade.

Whitmore R. Garland at Western Promenade.

All of which performed the duties assigned them in a very efficient manner.

DISCIPLINE.

The officials in charge of the Department have endeavored to keep the discipline up to a high standard, and, as far as they are able to observe, feel that their aim has been accomplished.

The men have done good work and as a general thing have shown an interest to try and help make the administration of the Department a success and a credit to the City.

CHANGES.

The following covers the changes that have taken place during the year :—

Resignation of officer Erastus E. Lombard on March 29.

Decease of officer Edward A. Webster on April 6.

Decease of officer William S. Morse on July 26.

The first two vacancies were supplied by the appointment to the force in June, of Michael R. Fell and Charles I. Wakefield.

The vacancy left by Officer Morse remains, at the date of this report, unfilled.

POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

The Gamewell Signal System now in use continues to be an indispensable feature in facilitating the work of the Department. It gives the officers on their beats, however remote from headquarters, a chance to communicate at all times with the officials in charge. It does away with the officers leaving their beats after making an arrest, thus giving them an opportunity to gather evidence in the case in question. Last but not least, it establishes a telephonic communication both day and night between the office and the men on their beats, which makes the Department effective and valuable.

There are now located at different points in the City thirty-five police signal boxes.

HEALTH OF THE FORCE.

The general health of the men has been very good with the exception of one case, that of Rodney Sparrow, who has been obliged to lay off duty for five months past.

Police officers are subjected to many dangers. They must be out at all hours, are exposed to the cold, rain and sudden changes of the weather, and their duties require them to enter the most unsanitary quarters of the City. Notwithstanding these facts, the physical standing of the force appears to be in excellent condition.

CELEBRATION.

The season of 1897 was one of unusual festivity in our City. For the Fourth of July the City Government made a liberal appropriation. The program for the day was extensively advertised and as a result brought the City a large number of visitors, variously estimated at from twenty to twenty-five thousand. The feature of the day was the grand parade, which was pronounced by all as the finest Portland had ever produced. A few days later, on the eighth and ninth, came the convention of the Knights of Pythias, and lodges from all over the State were in attendance. They furnished a large procession on each day, that marched over several of our principal streets. In August came the New England Fair with all its attractions, together with the visit of the United States naval fleet, which laid at anchor in our harbor during the week, and furnishing on one of the days a large parade participated in by the crews from the several ships.

While all these occasions brought many visitors, they also brought increased duties on the part of our police service, which was rendered admirably and reflected great credit to the Department. It is a source of great satisfaction, in connection with all the celebrations, to report that during the time no serious depredations upon property were committed, and no serious breach of the peace came to the knowledge of the officers.

POLICE RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

This Association has been in existence but four years, having been organized in February, 1894. Its membership consists of forty-five members, and while its roll is not large, its benefits have been quite extensive. It has paid out during the year for sick and death benefits, $435, and since its organization, a total of $1,410. Two members have died during the year, and two have joined the Association. No donations have been received the past year, and the financial increase has come from proceeds of the annual ball and dues from its members.

POLICE MATRON.

Mrs. Martha R. Moore has held this position since her appointment in 1895, and I can say that during my connection with the Department, she has performed the many duties in a faithful and satisfactory manner, and I take pleasure in having her report presented, which will be found in the last pages of this report.

STOLEN PROPERTY.

The amount of stolen property recovered during the year has been $2,810.29, which is very nearly all that was reported to the Department as missing.

LICENSES.

There has been collected for licenses for hacks and drays,	$130 50
From other sources,	58 53
Making a total of	$189 03

This has been paid into the City treasury.

For liquor vessels sold there has been collected the sum of $80.59, which amount has been paid into the County treasury.

REPAIRS.

There have been no repairs of any consequence made in the quarters of the Department. The cells have been whitened, also the ceilings in the guardroom and Marshal's outer office. A new safe has been placed in the Marshal's private office and the old one turned in toward paying for the same. The telephone, as located at the station, seemed to be in too conspicuous a place, and during the past year was transferred to another location and enclosed in a closet, which allows our service to be conducted in a secret manner, an essential point which could not be well accomplished before.

In assuming the duties of the office I found the stable badly in need of some additions, repairs and painting.

A new washstand was placed in the floor where the teams can be washed under cover, thus avoiding the disagreeable duty of washing outside, especially in cold and freezing weather.

The woodwork in the interior having been originally left in its natural state, had become, during the ten years of service, badly discolored, and was given two coats of light-colored paint. The trimmings and doors outside were given a thorough painting, so that the stable at present seems to be in fairly good condition, with the exception of the stalls which will require some overhauling the coming season.

There has been added to the equipment of the patrol service a new harness, which provides us with an additional one for use in case of accident or repairs.

The wagon was sent to the repair shop early in the season for overhauling and painting, and is now in good running order when needed.

We are using two horses in the patrol service and they are both in excellent condition.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

It is important that in each annual report suggestions should be made for such improvement in the arrangement and additions to the equipment of the service as experience has shown to be necessary or useful. In the annual reports of previous years my predecessor has suggested some changes and additions that I consider as being essential for the improvement of the Department. He refers to the condition of the rooms under the present arrangement, and in his recommendation says, "that there be a complete change in the rooms now occupied by the deputy marshals and as signal service rooms, I would suggest that the partition between the deputies' room and the patrolmen's room be removed, throwing the two rooms into one, to be used as the guard or patrolmen's room, that which the patrolmen now use being too small for their use. Again I would recommend that the outer office of the Marshal be arranged for the occupancy of the deputies and the signal apparatus, and that the room now occupied by the Overseers of the Poor be used as the entrance to the Marshal's office and as his reception-room." In this instance, I think his point well taken, and I fully endorse what he says, as I consider the present construction of our quarters entirely wrong and a rearrangement of the quarters absolutely necessary.

CELL-ROOM.

For the confinement of the prisoners I would recommend the adoption of what is called the steel cage, to be placed in the cell-room, and remove the present cells. Those we are now using are constructed of brick, and having been in use for the past forty years, it seems as though our arrangement in this particular is too antiquated, and in this age of improvements it would appear that something more modern should be substituted, and I hope at no distant day this change can be made.

CELLS FOR FEMALES AND INSANE.

Two cells are needed for female prisoners and should be situated remote from the general cell-room. Also one additional cell for the confinement of the insane, as there is no proper place for the keeping of such persons, and in my opinion we should construct a padded cell.

AMBULANCE.

Another very important addition to the Department would be the purchase of an ambulance, and I earnestly recommend that one be obtained as early as possible. At times when such a conveyance is required we are obliged to depend on outside parties or use the patrol wagon. This does not seem hardly the thing to send for injured persons, particularly while in transit the ease and comfort is not obtained that is demand in the conveying of such persons who may require the use of this kind of a carriage. Dependence on outside conveyances counteracts despatch, and quick action is very essential when an ambulance is sent for.

ENLARGEMENT OF STABLE.

To meet the requirements that the service demands, it seems that the time has come when the enlargement of our stable quarters should be seriously taken into consideration. I recommend that an addition be built in the rear with a suitable exit therefrom, through which the prisoners may be taken and carried direct to the cell-room outer entrance that is now there. This arrangement would not only provide us with additional room we need, but would prevent prisoners from being subjected to the gaze of the curious bystanders, who are in the habit of collecting at the entrance and watching the movements of arrested persons, when taken as they now are from the side stable door across the open yard to the station. There are times when removing persons from the wagon, scenes occur that are not proper to be witnessed by people young or old.

ADDITIONAL WAGON.

The Department needs another wagon of lighter build than the one now in use. One more suitable for a quick run, or in the case of fire, where it is important that this Department be represented fully as quickly as the Fire Department. Then again, in case our present wagon meets with any mishap we would have one to go and come on, and not be obliged to go out and hire one for the time being, as we have had to do in one or two cases.

During my brief connection as head of the Department, I feel fully justified in making these recommendations, as the service requires all I have stated to facilitate the handling of business. While I am aware that all our needs cannot forthcome at once, yet it seems essential that we make an immediate beginning by taking up the most desired changes first, and finally bringing all to completion as soon as practicable.

ADDITION TO THE FORCE.

I would recommend the appointment of two men to be added to our regular force. The last increase was made three years ago. Since that time considerable taxable property has been added to the City's valuation, particularly at the east and west ends, and in those sections there is quite a territory to cover, and as at present constituted, the beats in both localities are very much larger than any of the others, and it seems that the time has come when territory at those points should be more closely covered.

HARBOR POLICE.

In calling the attention of your honorable Board to this matter I am not going to put it in the form of a recommendation under the covers of this report, but simply lay the matter before the house, so to speak, for debate or future consideration. During my business connection on Commercial Street for a number of years at one of the wharves, the subject of stuff going off in the night time was occasionally discussed by all hands in the office, and we felt as though in the course of a year considerable lumber disappeared during the night hours.

Now taking all the wharves that make our water front, it is reasonable to assume that a good many times there are left on the docks over night a large variety of movable stuff, and lying at times right along the cap of the wharf, an excellent opportunity is offered for a small craft to drop in alongside and make a partial removal of some things that might appear desirable to the visitors, and then cast off and get under way again.

This matter of harbor police is nothing new, especially in cities possessing large harbors and extensive wharf property, and for that reason I thought no harm would be committed if the subject was ventilated somewhat.

If at some future time it is thought wise by your honorable Board to adopt any means of protection in this direction the question might arise as to the advisability of putting the fire-boat into service by placing on board two officers, and during the night time make a patrol over our harbor and water front.

CONCLUSION.

In bringing my report to a close I desire to extend to his Honor, Mayor Randall, my hearty appreciation of his courtesy and respect on all occasions, and his sterling support in all matters for the welfare of the Department to which his attention has been drawn.

To the Committee on Police, Messrs. Leighton and McDonald, I am under obligations for kindness and assistance in the discharge of my duties during the year.

To all members of the City Council I wish to express a word of thanks for their sense of cordiality, always apparent when in their company.

To his Honor, Judge Robinson, and to Recorder Turner, I tender my sincere appreciation of their words of wisdom and advice.

Deputies Sterling and Hartnett will please accept my compliments for their valuable assistance at all times, for courteous treatment and faithful performance of their duties, all of which has tended to the mutual benefit of the Department.

To the officers and others individually, I tender a feeling of satisfaction for the efficient and harmonious manner in which they have met the duties of the year.

To all the representatives of the press I wish to mention my observation of the agreeable and gentlemanly manner which they have at all times maintained when appearing at my office on matters of business.

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE W. SYLVESTER,
City Marshal.

Report of Police Matron.

One hundred and ten women have been brought to my notice at the police station during the municipal year and have been in from one to ten times.

I have had a general oversight of these, visited them in their cells morning by morning, listened to their stories, ascertained their residences and families, had a care that they were presentable before Court, and when they have expressed a wish or it had seemed best, gone with them to the court-room, especially has this been done with young girls or those under a first arrest.

When mothers have been sentenced, a care has been taken to see that their small children were cared for at the Temporary Home, or elsewhere, during their imprisonment.

Frequent visits have been made to the jail and house of correction, and an effort made, as the terms of these prisoners expired, to persuade those who have no families to go to places in the country to work. Several places have been procured for such, and they have been taken to them lest their weak desire for a better life should fail.

Two Scotch women, a mother and daughter, formerly nurses of good standing, expressed a wish to return to their native land and start anew, as their chance of earning a livelihood here was lost. A sufficient sum was collected from their friends and former patrons, tickets purchased, and they were accompanied to Boston and seen to sail, with a hope that under different surroundings they might spend the remainder of their lives in usefulness.

My attention has been called to women and girls in different parts of the City. A young mother with little children, shamefully abused by him who should have been her protector, struggling with poverty and sickness, was visited several times and her distress relieved.

Young girls in evil surroundings, have been looked after, two of whom have been sent to the Industrial School at Hallowell. Some who had come from other cities have been looked up and returned to anxious mothers.

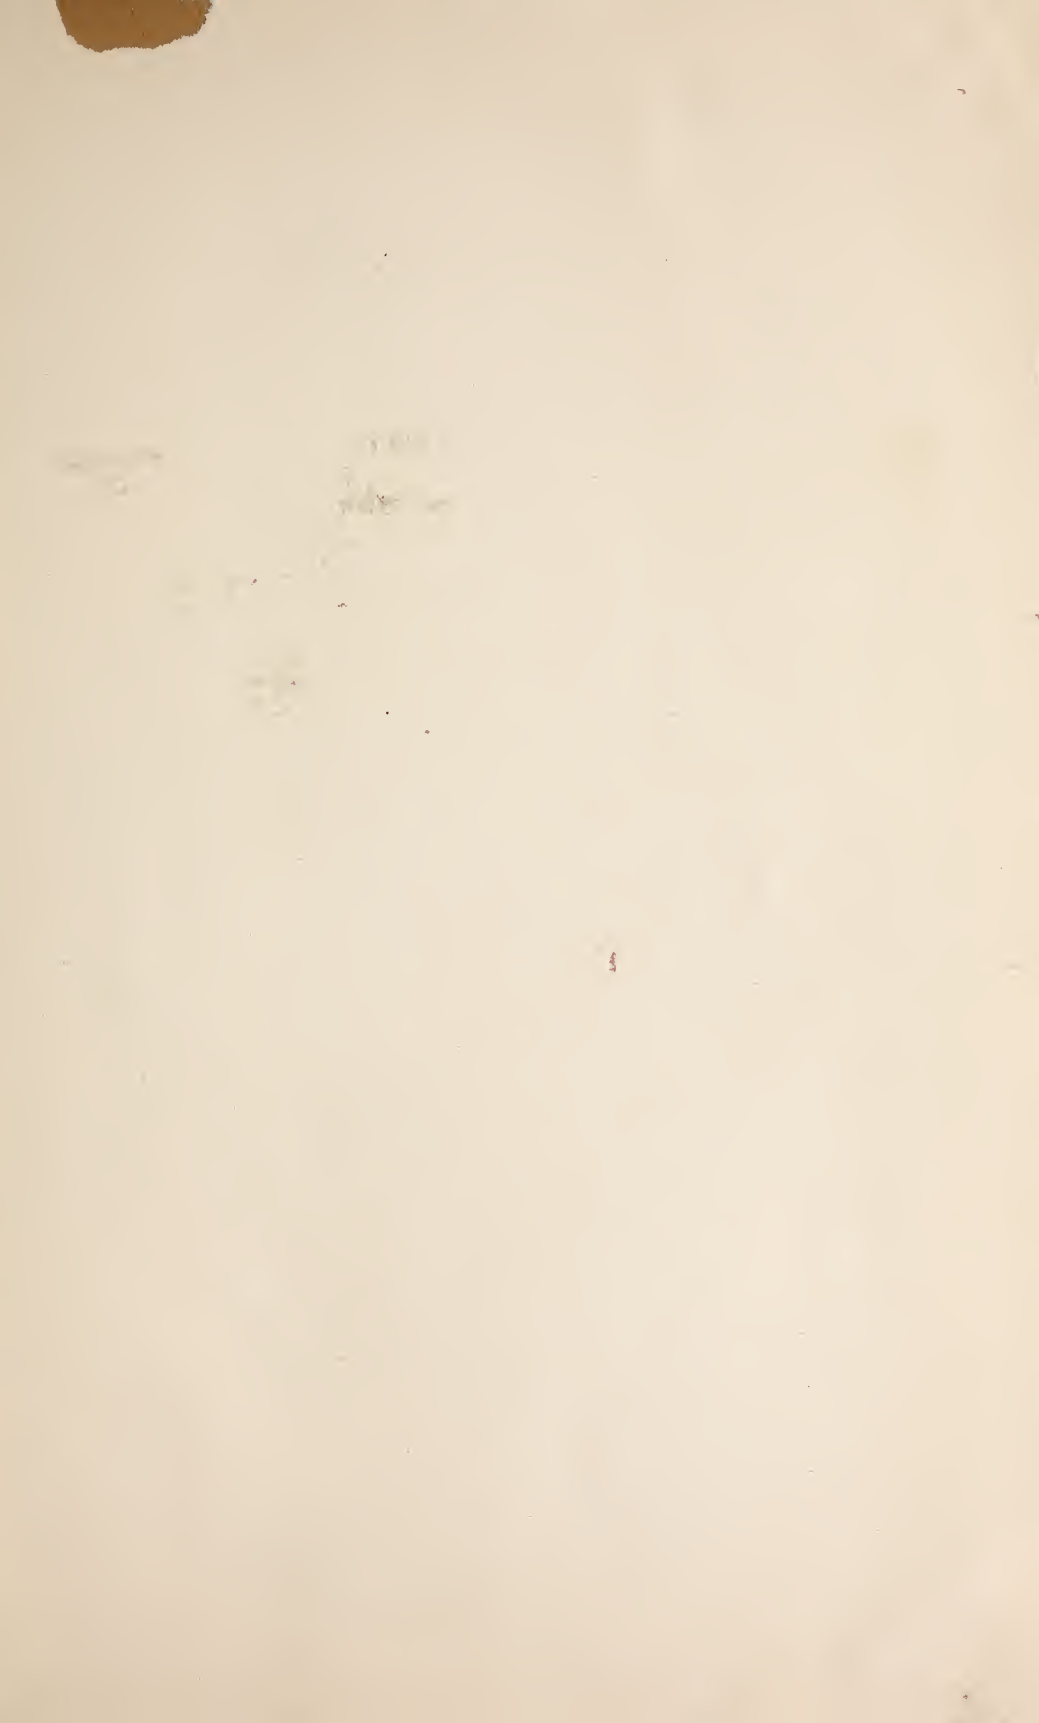

Your matron stands ready to do what a women should do in this work wherever her hand is needed, and would take this opportunity to acknowledge the universal courtesy and kindness received from those in charge.

Allow me to call attention to what has been suggested, and which seems to me a very important change, that cells for the women at the station should be in some place remote from the men, and to express a hope that the time is not far distant when we may have a reformatory for women, where the young girl under her first arrest, and those old in sin, may not freely mingle and assimilate, and the sentence may be until reform is assured.

Respectfully submitted,

MARTHA R. MOORE,

Police Matron.
